UNB Wood Science and Technology Seminar "The Future of Mass Timber in Atlantic Canada"

Hello, a message for your executive/ communications representative. We would be grateful if you would be able to send this conference out to your members/executive.

Engineered wood and mass timber is becoming more popular in building and bridge design and construction in Europe, the US and BC, ON and QC. We are looking to bring Atlantic Canada into the discussion on how to manufacture, design, build and maintain mass timber structures here.

We'll be bringing in speakers from the region in construction, design and innovation (from UNB), the NRCan director for mass timber from Ottawa, and an expert in bridges from the US.

Details and registration are here:

The construction industry is poised for disruption, digital technologies and processes are transforming the traditional planning, design, construction and operation of the built environment. Digital transformation will result in time savings, increased quality, improved safety, greater sustainability and waste reduction. New processes like off-site construction (pre-fabrication & modularization), digital workflows and the adoption of new automation technology are propelling the industry into a more productive and efficient future.

This session will host senior management executives, technology leaders and prominent researchers who will demonstrate how the design, construction and facility management industry are embracing digital transformation and benefiting from adopting new technologies and processes. Join us in Fredericton at the University of New Brunswick, home to Canada's first engineering program and the newly established Off-site Construction Research Centre (OCRC) – a collaborative research hub connecting industry and academia in partnership with OSCO Construction Group.

Dear colleagues and members,

With voting day fast approaching on October 21, we are renewing our call to you to join our campaign, #Construction4CDNs, by clicking on the take action button below and sending a letter to your election candidates.

Now is the time to stand up for construction and make sure action is taken on the issues facing our industry as we work to build a better Canada.

Take action! Send your letter

CCA's campaign #Construction4CDNs, and its associated website construction4cdns.ca, champion four main issues of national importance for the construction industry. They are:

- Strengthening investor confidence;
- Long-term infrastructure planning;
- Supporting innovation and technology; and
- Attracting a skilled and diverse workforce.

Visit the website to read more about these issues and what we are asking the government to do to address our concerns.

We are grateful to all those who have participated in this campaign to date and ask you to continue spreading the word to those who may not yet have had the opportunity. We would also encourage those whose homes and places of work are in separate ridings to send two letters to further extend our reach.

Please forward this message to your colleagues, friends and family who care about investing in Canada's future. There is strength in numbers and the more letters received; the more our voice is heard. Help spread the message by sharing when you've sent your letter using the campaign hashtag #Construction4CDNs.

Best regards,

Mary Van Buren, MBA, CAE

President
